It's very odd that students think school is all about learning and being serious. As a young child, I always thought school was the worst place ever until I went to Cole Academy. This school taught me that school is more than you think it is. This school means a place where you feel safe, a place where you learn and laugh, and a place where you don't always have to be serious. Last but not least, a place where you can show your true abilities and not be discouraged by it.

From going to Cole Academy for 4 years I received a good education and have started a new chapter for my life. Being able to even have caring teacher to teach me is the best blessing in the world. I am one out of not many that is able to get a education, to have the opportunity to make friends, and learn together is the best thing a child could ever know. Many children in different places aren't able to get an education, such as a teen activist named Malala, who fought for her education and others out there. The wonderful teachings that I've received from the talented teachers I had over the years is a big step in my life and will help in my later years.

Another thing I learned is my school is not only about the intelligent teachings I receive, but its also about the growth of friendship that has happened. As a student going to this school, I feel that my friendship has overcome a lot of obstacles that I takes to have a friendship. Through all the years at Cole Academy, I have made many friendships and have built a lot of strong relationships. I may have been through many ups and downs but at the end of the day all the work was worth it.

In conclusion, school is not just a building you go to and have to learn, its a place where you learn and build relationships and laugh and make friends. I feel so honored to be a part of Cole Academy. They have give such very encouraging advice to help all us students become better and smarter. All the teachers I had are such a blessing. One particular quote that was said to me will stick with me forever, "Don t let anyone tell you that you can't do something."
